METES OUT JUSTICE

An Old Negro's Idea of Missionary Work.

LET THE DEVIL REST IN PEACE

Rev. Anthony Buxton Takes Part in Making n Collection by Force-The Prisoner and the Judge.

[FOR THE SUNDAY HERALD .- Copyrighted.] Rev. Anthony Buxton, the old negro who, during the visit of a colored delegation to the White House, astonished every one by demanding that the President should join him in prayer, is the paster of the Bushy Creek meetinghouse. He is an exceedingly sturdy old fellow, and is so vigorous of body that one of his "howdy do" slaps, such as one often bestows upon the shoulder of a friend, has been known to knock a brother off the bench and create consternation among the mourners. The old man has been so successful in every work that he has undertaken that recently he decided to do something in the way of foreign missions, ever a hazardous undertaking among the negroes, and thereby, with his newly-acquired frame, place himself at the head conference and then run things pretty much his own way.

"Bruders an' sisters," said Rev. Mr. Buxton, just after he had given out his text last Sanday, "befo' I enters into de merica and do 'clusions o' dis yere 'portant ques o' de help o' de human fambly. Dar is er whole nation o' folks livin' way ober yander In de heathen land dat neber thinks of goin' ter church, care why! Da ain't got no church ter go ter. 'Stead o' yerein' de hallelujah o' de Christian pusson, and de sinner man's groan fur help at de mouraers' bench deze folks bunts and fishes on de Sabbaf. In dat awful country the little chillun, 'stend o' yerin' de techin' story o' de holy men dat blowed de ram's horn and de holy men dat blowed de ram's horn and den seed de walls o' Jerieo come er tumblin' down, da lays round widout no clothes on, and while in dis country de chillun is givin' da blessed nickles fur de good o' de preacher, deze po' chillun is er fiingin' mud at one 'nuder and is caperin' high in da ' Satantainted glee. Must sich a proceedin' go on in deze bright days o' de Lawd! I says no, da musta't. But how we gwine to stop it! I'll tell you. We gwine ter sen' good preachers ober dur and help dem folks ter' fess 'ligion, dat's how. But bow we goin' ter send de preachers! I'll tell you' dat, too. We gwine raisse er whole lot o' money and den de good men kin go, but you better blebe da kain't go widout money. Now, I want all hands ter fing in er little suthin'.

Bruder Markham, you tote de hat round de Old Silveste: Bowles arose and said:

Old Silveste: Bowles arose and said: "I ain't gwine to give no money ter sich foolishness er dis yere. Ef dem men you talk er 'bout wanter go feeskin', w'y it ain't none o' my business. It ain't fur me ter go and interfere wid dar erfairs. De possuls went feeskin', and da cotch feesk, too. An' ef dem chillun dat ain't doin' nobody no harm wanter waller and 'joy dase's, w'y I say let 'em go er head. Dem folks is jest ex much de chillun o' de Lawd says; ever' bit en grain, and when de Lawd says; 'Yere, stop dat foolishness,' da gwine stop, and tell He do say fur 'em ter stop, w'y it ain't none o' my place ter come mixin' up in de erfar. Da all peers ter be happy, not knowin' dat cle Satan is atter 'em, and knowin' dat cle Satan is atter 'em, and lemme tell you whut's er fack, how does we know dat heis? You wants ter raise money ermuff ter send preachers ober dar ter tell 'em dat lessen da do ez do folks ober yere say do, da is gwine ter be damned. Now, I say do, da isagwine ter be damned. Now, I kain't say dat da gwine be damned any mo' den we is. I yere tell dat da doan cheat one nuther, but you kain't say dat erbout de folks in dis yere country. Da doan git up no trusts—da ain't got no corners on watermelons. Da doan tell you dat er hoss dat da jest let you hab ain't mo'n fo' year ole and de naixt day you find out dat he dun mighty nigh dead wid age. I ain't gwine gin er cent.',

The preacher was so astounded that it was some time before he could reply. But his countenance, at first lifted into astonhis countenance, at first firter into aston-ment, soon drew down in contempt. "Bruder Bowles," said he, "I has seed er good many mean men in my time—I has seed men dat would snatch er hunk o' liver er way frum er starvin' dog and fling it er way, jes' ter yere de po' dog how), but I neber befo' seed ez meaner man ez yo'se'f is ash."
